

GREENVILLE, S.C., April 12 /PRNewswire/ -- Rockwell Automation / DODGE and Flender AG announced today the formation of a strategic alliance for the development and manufacture of a new gearmotor product line. The companies will share design technology, process technology, and global industry knowledge to provide feature-rich, cost-competitive products with greatest- total-value customer solutions. The alliance joins industry-leading North American and European mechanical power transmission companies.

DODGE is part of Rockwell Automation, which designs, manufactures, and supports a broad range of industrial automation products worldwide.